Colonel, IN Commanding

Welcome to Fort McCoy — a community of quality and excellence! This publication was developed to provide you with some of the most-requested information about the installation. For more information, please visit the Fort McCoy public website at <http://www.mccoy.army.mil>.

Fort McCoy's mission is to support the readiness of the force by serving as a training center and a support site for force-generation missions.

As a Total Force Training Center, Fort McCoy's primary responsibility is providing quality training facilities for reserve- and active-component military forces. Fort McCoy is a ready and capable mobilization site, equipped to prepare and deploy military units for any contingency.

As a world-class installation, Fort McCoy's continuing goal is to provide excellent customer service and facilities and to enhance the quality of life for all who train, work or live here. The Fort McCoy community truly is unique, with active, reserve and civilian components working together for the betterment of all facets of life at the installation.

Training Opportunities

Located in the heart of the upper Midwest, Fort McCoy is the only U.S. Army installation in Wisconsin. Fort McCoy lives its motto, "Total Force Training Center." The installation has provided support and facilities for the field and classroom training of more than 100,000 military personnel from all services each year since 1984.

The Fort McCoy complex is situated on 60,000 acres, 46,000 of which are available for maneuver and training. Fort McCoy's superb location, quality terrain and four-season climate provide units with significant year-round training opportunities.

Fort McCoy provides reserve- and active-component forces with the networked, integrated, interoperable training resources required to support the Army's training strategies with a full spectrum of facilities, ranges, and training areas.

Fort McCoy offers an environment for units to train unified land operations across the range of military operations, allowing simultaneous conduct of individual- through brigade-level training, static live fire, maneuver live fire and force-on-force in both urban and unimproved terrain.

Fort McCoy has 30 live-fire ranges, 17 of which are automated or instrumented; 21 artillery firing points, 12 mortar firing points and an 8,000-acre impact area. Ranges supporting collective live fire training include two multi-purpose training ranges, a convoy live-fire range, an infantry squad battle course, a multi-purpose machine-gun range, two live-fire shoot houses and a live-fire breach facility. Individual qualification ranges include modified record-fire, automated record-fire, and 10-meter/25-meter basic rifle, as well as a qualification training range with modified record-fire and combat pistol/military police qualification-course capability.

Fort McCoy also has developed extensive urban training facilities, including an urban assault course, two live-fire shoot houses, two fully instrumented urban training sites with 20 and 152 buildings each, an urban training area with 175 buildings and four after-action review facilities. Combined, these areas provide a continuous 2.4-kilometer capability for mounted and dismounted urban training scenarios.

Specialized training sites include a semi-improved airstrip with a Seizure/Forced-Entry training site, a Search/Site Exploitation Facility, two tunnel systems, an engineer bridging site, and two fully instrumented Home Station Training Lanes (HSTL). Each 8-kilometer HSTL includes overpasses, bridges, canals, urban villages, traffic circles, guard rails, culverts, and divided roadways.

Looking to the future, Fort McCoy is prepared to meet the training needs of the Army in the 21st century. More than $27 million was invested improving and upgrading the Range Complex in 2011, with more than $25 million in major construction to be completed in the next two years, including a known-distance range, an automated record-fire range and a Combined Arms Collective Training Facility.

Fort McCoy also is "home" to a number of Army, Department of Defense and state activities that further broaden the scope of training and support available here. These include the 86th Training Division, 88th Regional Support Command, 181st Infantry Brigade, 426th Regiment Training Institute & Wisconsin Military Academy, Army & Air Force Exchange Service, Army Reserve Equal Employment Opportunity Office, Aviation Company (Fixed Wing), Defense Commissary Agency, Defense Logistics Agency Disposition Services, Defense Logistics Agency Document Services, Defense Military Pay Office, Equipment Concentration Site-67, Fort McCoy Civilian Personnel Advisory Center, Maneuver Area Training Equipment Site, Mission and Installation Contracting Command, Installation Contracting Office Fort McCoy, Naval Mobile Construction Battalion-25, Network Enterprise Center, Noncommissioned Officer Academy, Occupational Health Clinic, Recruiting Command, Regional Training Site – Maintenance, Regional Training Site – Medical, U.S. Army Reserve Pay Center, Wisconsin National Guard Challenge Academy and the Wisconsin State Patrol Academy.

Economic Impact

Fort McCoy has the largest work force in Monroe County and one of the largest within the greater La Crosse region.

Currently, nearly 4,000 personnel are employed at Fort McCoy — 1,443 civilians; 1,267 military and 1,261 contract employees.

In fiscal year 2011, Fort McCoy returned more than $409.6 million to the local economy, which translated into an estimated total economic impact of $1.31 billion.

Community Life

Many quality-of-life projects at Fort McCoy benefit personnel associated with the installation. These include construction of:

- A $4.8 million Child Development Center.
- 55 single-family dwellings and infrastructure improvements on Fort McCoy's South Post. This multi-year, multi-million dollar, multi-phase project was funded through Army Family Housing and the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act.
- A state-of-the-art food and entertainment facility, named McCoy's, which features an eight-lane bowling center and an outdoor courtyard area.
- A $3.8 million Exchange facility.

- A $4.2 million Commissary.
- A $3.5 million Training and Mobilization Dining Facility.

Neighboring Communities

Goods and services not readily available on the installation can be obtained in the civilian communities, many of which are within easy driving distance of the post.

Fort McCoy is located approximately seven miles west of Tomah, six miles east of Sparta, 25 miles south of Black River Falls, and 35 miles east of La Crosse. Each of these communities is home to a variety of industries and offers many recreational and social opportunities and events. The installation enjoys positive working relationships with, and public support from, the chambers of commerce, county and school boards, civic organizations, veterans groups and the general citizenry within these communities.

May your stay at Fort McCoy and visits to the surrounding areas be pleasurable and memorable experiences.

HISTORY

Serving America's armed forces since 1909

Fort McCoy is named for Robert Bruce McCoy. The son of a Civil War captain, McCoy was a prominent local resident who, throughout his lifetime, served as a lawyer, district attorney, county judge and mayor of Sparta, Wis. He reached the rank of major general during his 31 years of distinguished military service, which included service in the Spanish-American War, the police action in Mexico, and World War I.

McCoy returned from the Spanish-American War with a dream. He knew that as warfare became increasingly more modern, larger and more-powerful guns would be developed, and training would be emphasized. He envisioned these changes would require larger training areas, and, by 1905, he had acquired approximately 4,000 acres of land in the Sparta area.

Maj. Samuel Allen of the 7th Field Artillery at Fort Snelling, Minn., also admired the terrain of the Sparta area for its training value. September 1905 marked the first use of the land for military purposes. McCoy invited Allen's unit to put his family's ranch to the test during 16 days of training.

As a result of the 16-day test, Allen recommended to an Army review board that a large piece of land be purchased for an artillery camp. Approximately 14,200 acres of land, including McCoy's 4,000 acres, were purchased in 1909. The resulting parcel was called the "Sparta Maneuver Tract."

The Sparta Maneuver Tract was divided approximately in half by the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad. The maneuver camp situated on the northern half of the parcel was referred to as Camp Emory Upton, while that to the south was known as Camp Robinson.

In 1910, the War Department authorized $40,000 for construction and improvements to the area. Within that same year, the reservation was renamed Camp Bruce E. McCoy, in honor of the Civil War captain. The camp retained that name until Nov. 19, 1926, when it officially was designated as Camp McCoy in honor of Maj. Gen. Robert B. McCoy, who had died that same year.

Nearly 9,500 acres of land were acquired from the Department of Agriculture in 1938-39. From 1940-1942, an additional 37,437 acres were acquired by a directive from the Secretary of War. These additions included construction of the large, triangular-shaped cantonment area, much of which still exists today.

The "New Camp" officially was inaugurated Aug. 30, 1942. Total cost for the construction was estimated at $30 million, and the camp capacity was set at 35,000.

Camp McCoy was used as a training facility for many World War II units, including the 2nd Infantry Division, the 76th Infantry Division and the 100th Infantry Battalion, which was comprised of Hawaii National Guardsmen of Japanese ancestry. The post also served as a prisoner-of-war and enemy-alien prison camp during this time.

Aside from temporary lulls, the installation has been in almost constant use since its founding in 1909 and has provided artillery and maneuver training opportunities for millions of military personnel from all services.

Camp McCoy was aligned under U.S. Army Forces Command July 1, 1973, and officially was re-designated as Fort McCoy Sept. 30, 1974.

In 1990-91, during Operations Desert Shield/Storm, Soldiers from 74 separate units and their equipment were deployed and redeployed at Fort McCoy.

From June 1991 through June 1992, the post also completed Operation Desert Fix, which was one of the largest reserve-component equipment demobilization/repair missions in the Army. During Desert Fix, Fort McCoy was responsible for inventorying, inspecting, repairing and returning more than a division-and-a-half's worth of equipment to 121 owning units located throughout a nine-state area.

Fort McCoy experienced great construction growth throughout the 1990s. This was the first major construction to occur at the post since 1942. From 1990 through 2011, $285.4 million in new construction contracts were awarded, the majority to regional firms.

Training levels at Fort McCoy reached record proportions in fiscal year 2000, with 149,432 personnel participating. The installation has provided support and facilities for the training of more than 100,000 personnel annually since 1984.

Fort McCoy was aligned under the U.S. Army Reserve Command in 1993.

Fort McCoy was realigned under what is now known as the Installation Management Command in 2002.

Today, Fort McCoy's primary mission is to support the readiness of the force by serving as a training center and a support site for power-projection missions.

The installation has served in a continuing capacity as an Army power-projection site by processing and preparing military personnel for duty in overseas contingency operations.

From Sept. 11, 2001 through Dec. 30, 2011, 140,197 military personnel from 2,416 units mobilized or demobilized at Fort McCoy during the installation's efforts to support the Global War on Terror.

ATTRACTIONS

Commemorative Area preserves post's past

The 900-block of the installation and the area immediately surrounding it are at the hub of the fort's history preservation efforts.

The Commemorative Area consists of World War II-era buildings set aside to help tell Fort McCoy's unique story. These facilities are representative of the types found in the cantonment area when it was constructed in 1942. Three of the buildings — an administrative facility, a dining facility and a barracks — are set up to depict Soldier life during the 1940s. Display items include bunk beds, footlockers, mannequins, and potbelly stoves. Another building highlights four different current military training venues, and a separate facility shows various training aides. The Commemorative Area is open April through October to groups by appointment.

The History Center features displays of photographs and memorabilia that reflect the roles the installation has held since 1909. The History Center is open year-round to groups by appointment.

The Equipment Park is an outdoor display of historic and present-day equipment representative of the types used on the installation. The design of the park allows for display of nearly 60 pieces of equipment, ranging from helicopters and howitzers to trucks and trailers. A brochure featuring the park layout guide and information about each piece of equipment on display is available on site. Visitors have access to the Equipment Park year-round from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

Veterans Memorial Plaza is a tribute to all of the men and women who have served the nation during each era of Fort McCoy's history.

For the convenience of visitors, the Commemorative Area includes a picnic pavilion and restroom facilities.

Guided, narrated tours of the installation can be arranged for groups Monday through Friday throughout the year. A tour without stops lasts approximately one hour. There is no cost for the tour, and dining is available on the installation.

For individuals or smaller-sized groups, a Self-Guided Driving Tour brochure is available. This tour follows a prescribed route, outlined on an included map, and incorporates text and photographs to explain the many facets of life at the installation. Visitors may take the driving tour between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. daily throughout the year.

To schedule a guided tour or to obtain a copy of the Driving Tour, contact the Fort McCoy Public Affairs Office.

Fort McCoy hosts an Open House each year on the third Saturday in May — Armed Forces Day. This is an excellent time to visit — no appointment required! All Commemorative Area buildings are open, guided installation bus tours are offered, and special activities are scheduled.
